

November 2005

372564
DEPT. OF TRANSPORTATION
DOCKETS

Docket No. 22114 - 2845
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

2005 NOV 21 P 3:11

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

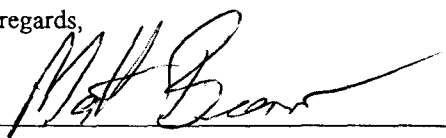

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

_____
Signature

MATT BEAVER 2400 WATER GAULB DR. PLYMOUTH, IN 46563
_____
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

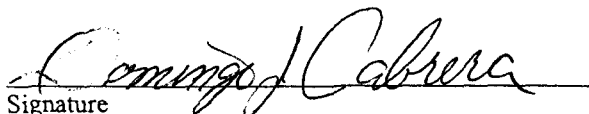

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Domingo Cabrera 4228 Irish Hill /C South Bend, IN. 46614
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590-001

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

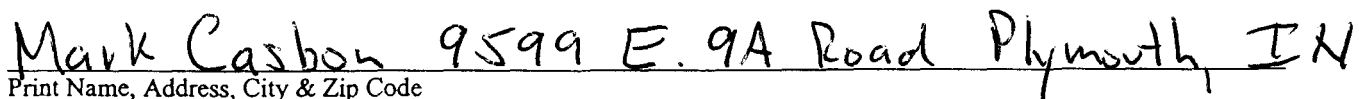

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590-001

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

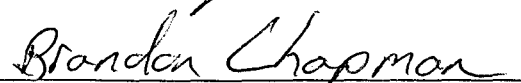

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Brandon Chapman 507 S Harris St South Bend IN 46504
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

LEROY S. DUDECK 20271 W 43 RD WALKERTON 46574
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

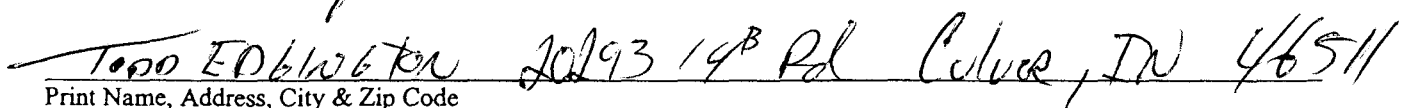

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590-001

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone. CAN GO TO EITHER TIME ZONE AS LONG AS BOTH COUNTIES ARE SAME
Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

MARK GRIMSLIO 13531 NOVA LANE MISHAWAKA, INDIANA
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

46544

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

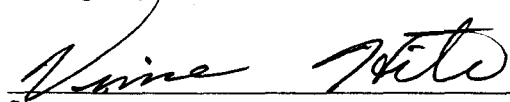

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Vince Hita 19361 W. Lincoln Hwy. Plymouth
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code 46563

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Betsy L. Hummel 16374 2B Road, Walkerton, Indiana 46574
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

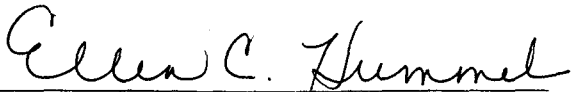

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Ellen C. Hummel 16374 2B Road, Walkerton, IN 46574

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

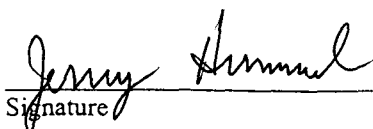

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

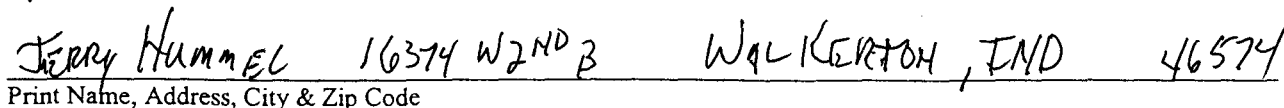

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

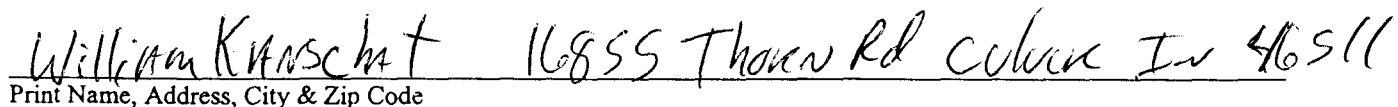

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

MIKE KLINGENSMITH 22630 WILLOW TRAIL WALKERTON IN, 46574
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

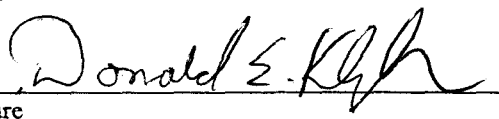

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Donald E. Kieffer 426 E. Center St. Bourbon Ind. 46504
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Carl Martin
Signature

CARL MARTIN 8649 King Road, Plymouth, IN 46563
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

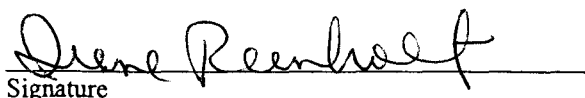

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

4447 N 500 E Monterey IN 46960
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

ROBERT J. RUTH 54315 Fir Rd Mish. In 46545
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

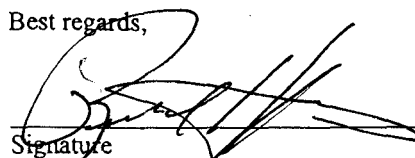

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Rick Saenz 19629 Old Ridge Rd South Bend, I
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

46614

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

JOHN P. SARBER 114 W. NORTH ST. PLYMOUTH, IN 46563
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

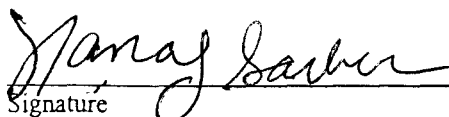

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

NANCY SARBUR 114 W NORTH PLYMOUTH IN
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code 46563

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590-001

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

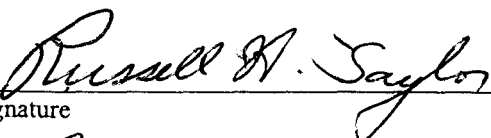

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

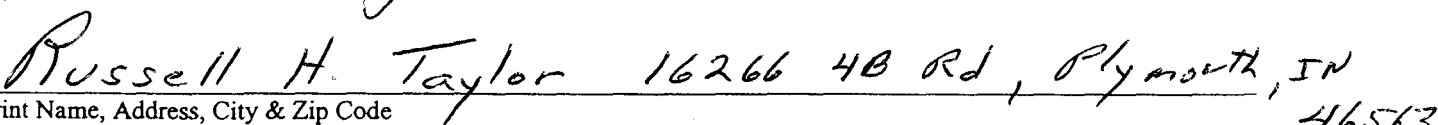

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-401
Washington, DC 20590-001

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

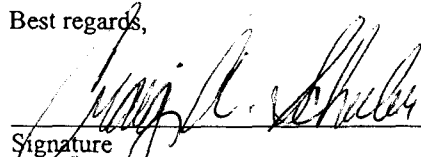

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S.W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Martin Thomas

Signature

Martin Thomas 10625 E. 128 Rd Plymouth, IN 46563

Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code

November 2005

Docket No. 22114
Docket Management Facility
U.S. Department of Transportation
400 Seventh Street, S W.
Nassif Building, Room PL-40 1
Washington, DC 20590-00 1

Dear Hearing Officer,

I am writing in response to the DOT's recent proposed ruling regarding Docket No. 22114 establishing time zone boundaries in Indiana. There are two aspects of your proposal that I believe need to be changed in the final rule. First, Marshall County must remain in the same time zone as St. Joseph County, and secondly, Marshall County should be moved to the Central time zone with St. Joseph County.

First, Marshall and St. Joseph counties must remain in the same time zone since they are part of the same regional economy. As St. Joseph County states in its petition, St. Joseph County is the hub of the Designated Market Area (DMA), which includes Marshall County.

Marshall County depends upon the St. Joseph County DMA for its radio and television broadcasts, and the largest daily newspaper, The South Bend Tribune, is published in St. Joseph County.

Passenger rail service for Marshall County residents is provided by the South Shore Railroad in St. Joseph County, which provides commuter transportation between South Bend and Chicago. Marshall County residents also rely upon the South Bend area for passenger bus service and for rail passenger service via Amtrak. The major passenger airport for Marshall County residents is located in South Bend in St. Joseph County, with flights to Chicago and Indianapolis.

Economically, more than 2,675 Marshall County residents (8.9 percent of the county workforce) commute into St. Joseph County, while nearly 1,100 St. Joseph County residents commute to Marshall County each day. In total, nearly 4,000 people cross the county line between Marshall and St. Joseph counties each day to go to work.

Educationally, Marshall County residents travel to St. Joseph County to attend St. Mary's College, the University of Notre Dame, Indiana University South Bend, and the Ivy Tech State Community College. In addition, the John Glenn School Corporation in Walkerton, Ind., and the Union-North United School Corporation in Lakeville, Ind., enroll a significant number of students from both counties.

Finally, while Marshall County has local hospitals in Plymouth and Bremen, the major medical facilities, including trauma centers, are located at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center and Memorial Hospital, both of which are located in South Bend in St. Joseph County.

The second change I want to recommend is moving Marshall County into the Central time zone.

Given that St. Joseph County is the hub of the DMA, and Marshall County is clearly dependent upon the St. Joseph County DMA, and your proposal moves St. Joseph County into the Central time zone, then it is clear that moving Marshall County into the Central time zone with St. Joseph County meets the DOT's convenience of commerce standard.

For these reasons, I respectfully request that you keep Marshall and St. Joseph counties in the same time zone.

Best regards,

Signature

137 E. Broadway SB, IN 46601
Print Name, Address, City & Zip Code